

Everything you need, all in one place. This best in class bundle is the foundation for successful digital signage. We've combined rock solid hardware, award winning software and eye catching content to make the ultimate platform for any size business. Versatile, scalable and so easy to use, your CEO can do it.

Software

The two components of the software are Content Manager and Player.

The Player Software is the workhorse of the platform. In addition to displaying your content, this software is in constant communication with our servers so you always know the status of your network. We're not repackaging some other company's software and calling it our own... we built this software from the ground up with performance and reliability in mind. 100% made in the USA.

Content Manager is your web based command center for your digital signs. All the tools you need to create, edit, schedule and publish content are here at your fingertips. We built a "What You See Is What You Get" environment so you always know exactly what your content will look like on your screens.

Hardware

One of the key components of an effective digital signage solution is high quality hardware. We've taken an industry leading, high performance, small form factor computer and optimized it for the playback of dynamic digital signage content. This digital signage player can control two screens of independent content and, because of it's size, is easily mounted out of sight.

You need screens? We've got you covered. Our team will work with you to determine the best screens for your project and your budget.

Design

Included in the SmarterSign Standard bundle is a template designed by our design team with your branding, images and content. You'll get an initial consultation with our design team so we understand your specific needs. Our team has years of expertise in designing content specifically for digital signage and can help you avoid common mistakes. Other companies can charge several thousand dollars for a single design, but we include it at no additional cost. In addition, we've included a library of hundreds of professionally designed, easily customizable templates. No other platform comes close to offering this kind of value.
